Rob Moonen is Director, SAFE Companies of the BC Forest Safety Council, reporting to Chief Executive Officer, Peter Lineen. Rob leads the operation and ongoing development of the province wide program. SAFE Companies certifies forestry operations passing independent audits to demonstrate that they meet industry safety standards. He is also responsible for developing and leading council support services and systems that improve internal services and assist the forest industry's drive to eliminate fatalities and serious injuries.

Rob grew up on Vancouver Island and brings to the Council more than 20 years experience in occupational health and safety and human resources. Prior to joining the Council his previous roles included Senior Advisor of Human Resources for Catalyst Paper, Supervisor of Health and Safety for Saanich School District, Program Coordinator for the Work Injury Reduction Program, Workers' Compensation Board of Alberta and Health and Safety Specialist for Canada Packers.

Rob holds a BCIT Diploma in Occupational Health and Safety and is a Chartered Insurance Professional. Rob is certified by the Ken Blanshard Companies as an instructor in Leading Change and has completed numerous continuing education programs on subjects such as accommodating workplace disabilities, situational leadership, labour law and building high-performing teams.
